

As If In Egypt ...

Families enjoy learning about Passover interactively at the Bloom Matzah Factory.

The Jewish Community Center was once again the place to be for the annual Barbara and Douglas Bloom Matzah Factory. On April 10, families got together to hear and see the story of Passover in the JCC lobby.

Rabbi Shneur Silberberg of the Bais Chabad Torah Center in West Bloomfield once again played Moses, helping the participants through the “Red Sea” and teaching them how to make kosher-for-Passover matzah.

Afterward, many children and families enjoyed exploring the JCC’s Shalom Street Museum.

The Matzah Factory is a partnership of Jewish Federation’s JFamily, Shalom Street and the Bais Chabad Torah Center. *

Rabbi Shneur Silberberg shows the children how to pronounce water in Hebrew.

Silberberg of Bais Chabad plays Moses as he explains Passover.

2-year-old Merrill Sternberg of Bloomfield Hills enjoys what she has made.

Participants are led through the parting of the Red Sea.

Adam Zuckerman of Bloomfield, helps his son, Ari, 1, roll his matzah.

Mosher Morris, 3, and Toba, 7, of Southfield roll dough.

Lisa Soble Siegmann of JFamily bakes the matzah.

Gail Greenberg of Federation’s JFamily shows Paloma Brenner, 3, of West Bloomfield how to work a millstone.

Photos by Jerry Zolynsky